

Volunteer Structure

Mesker Park Zoo and Botanic Garden is committed to conservation of our wildlife and the environment we share. We seek engaging educational interactions with guests with the goal of enhancing their experience at the Zoo, and increasing their empathy and awareness about the environmental issues we all face. Volunteers have a significant role in that success.

Many people volunteer with their church, school, scout, work, or civic group to help with a special event or grounds project for a day, and no special training is required to do that. Others want to volunteer at the Zoo on a more regular basis, and should complete the training they need to serve in the roles they seek. There are a few types of volunteers at the Zoo...

Volunteers

There are many opportunities to volunteer at the Zoo, including special events, botanical projects, guest interaction, and educational programs for both the young and the young at heart. Our volunteer program is diverse and flexible to meet your needs. You can begin your volunteer path assisting with general projects and events on zoo grounds with minimal training, or advance to more skilled privileges like ambassador animal handling or educational programming with specialized training. The volunteer journey can begin for as little as 6 hours of training and 20 hours per year.

Docents

Docents are adult volunteers that interact with guests to enhance their zoo experience. Docents have completed specialized training to provide educational interpretation of exhibits, bio facts, and animals throughout the zoo to teach about wildlife, environment, and conservation topics. Docents also conduct programs to schools, scout groups, summer campers, senior citizens, and civic organizations in our community. Docents must be at least 18 years of age, a member of the Zoo, and complete training requirements that correspond with the type of privileges desired.

Zooteens

Young volunteers 13-18 years of age can become Zooteens, which help staff and adult volunteers with projects, educational activities, summer camps, and events. Our Zooteen program offers opportunities to interact with animals, meet like-minded teens, and gain beneficial experiences to help them find their paths as young adults. Zooteens can start the program early each fall to coincide with the school year, and they can volunteer through the end of the summer of their senior year. Zooteens can volunteer for as little as 6 hours of training and 20 hours per year.

Volunteer today, your way!

See below for the new tiered volunteer structure, and on the reverse side for the volunteer class schedule. To find out more information, visit our website at www.meskerparkzoo.com. Register to become a volunteer by submitting an application, which can be found under "Volunteers". Reservations are required to attend training classes, and classes must be completed in level order.
